

Neil Jensen

Candidate for Secret Harbour

Animal Justice Party

THEY CAN'T VOTE. YOU CAN.

Animals have almost zero representation in our democracy. Their interests are consistently sidelined by decision makers, and their suffering is routinely ignored.

While that's a massive problem on its own, recent RSPCA data also flagged the City of Rockingham as one of WA's top cruelty hotspots, making animal protection an issue of major relevance in this by-election.

The problems are systemic:

- Weak anti-cruelty laws that allow loopholes to be exploited and abusers to go unpunished;
- Serious conflicts of interest caused by the same government departments holding responsibility for both animal welfare and industry prosperity;
- Abysmally poor resourcing for welfare inspectors, who aren't equipped to handle the volume of cruelty reports received.

These issues wouldn't be hard to address. Animals just lack representatives who'll give them the time and focus they desperately need.

I'm passionate about solutions to human issues, too:

- A drastically increased housing supply to alleviate the rental crisis,
- Far greater investment in emergency medical care and mental health services,
- A revival of our manufacturing sector to strengthen our economy,
- Greater subsidies and rebates to address the cost-of-living crisis,
- Lower student-to-teacher ratios so our kids receive the tailored support they deserve.

When voters look to minor parties and independents for meaningful change, the major players get very uncomfortable. So, this by-election, please use your vote to tell them you demand more.

VOTE 1
